

A note from program co-chair Santo (Sandy) Bisignano, Jr., Bisignano & Harrison, L.L.P.:

35+ years ago, my supervising partner, Bob Kroney, had the vision to send me to the Short Course on Estate Planning sponsored by the Southwestern Legal Foundation taught entirely by Professor Stanley Johanson. That foundation is now called The Center for American and International Law; the "Short Course" is now known as the "Annual Course on Estate Planning"; and Professor Johanson shares the instructional duties with other top notch and nationally known speakers. In my opinion, the Annual Course on Estate Planning is a "must" for those entering the estate planning practice because it covers estate planning from "soup to nuts." It is also a great refresher course for experienced planners who want to be kept fully informed about current estate planning ideas. I urge you to sign up and we look forward to your attendance.
