WORKS IN PROGRESS

The morning sessions will showcase two important works in progress on key topics in international arbitration which have been selected from 57 submissions through a rigorous review process. Each session will begin with a presentation of the work in progress by the author, followed by commentary on the work in progress by an internationally recognized expert and then interactive discussion among all participants. Our objective is to integrate the unique insights of practitioners and academics and promote the evolution of international arbitration during a time of global transition.

ITA gratefully acknowledges the members of the 2013 ITA Winter Forum Selection Committee: José E. Alvarez, Professor of Law, New York University School of Law, New York, N. Jansen Calamita, Lecturer in International Law, University of Birmingham Law School, Birmingham, UK, Raoul G.
